Financial Skills and Literacy for Aboriginal Women Coming Out of an Abusive Relationship

* 2-DAY TRAINING ***

In today's world, having financial "know-how" is encouraging and empowering. Helping empower women involved in an abusive relationship is one of the many services offered by shelters. Learning how to become financially knowledgeable is an essential aspect of independence.

Participants will be trained on the goals, objectives and key points necessary to empower women who are in need of the knowledge and skills necessary to take control of their own finances, and to release themselves from an abusive situation.
